FACE VALUE

LANGE and Sohne first manufactured precision pocket watches in the mid-19th century and many have gone on to become some of the most sought after timepieces in the world. This watch, which goes on sale in June, is set to be a classic of the future from a watchmaker regarded by many as one of the best in the industry.

DIAMONDS ARE FOREVER

CHRISTOPHER Ward is a new kid on the watchmaker block, but one with a very simple aim, to put high quality luxury watches within the reach of everyone. But that doesn't mean there will be any scrimping on the quality. Ward makes his money by dealing direct with customers via his website.

MUSIC TO THE EARS

STEINWAY might be a name more familiar to the world of pianists, but it's becoming a force to be reckoned with in the watch business. The distinctive shape of the grand piano is reflected in this example, and like a Steinway piano, each string is fitted by hand.

THE NAME'S BOND

WHEN Ian Fleming first penned the Bond novels, a video watch seemed to be something of a pipe dream. Not any more. This ingenious 2GB timepiece plays movies and music, and displays photos on its 1.5-inch screen. Simply USB it into your computer and fire up the idiot proof software.
